ENGLAND AND GERMANY.

We extract the following from an important article in the September number of the "Deutsche Revue," on "German Foreign Policy," which begins by describing the meeting between the German Emperor and King Edward as the most momentous event of the last month. "This incident," the writer says, "leads direct into the centre of European disturbance. A pacific policy in France could only desire the exist in Germany that our relations with Engrelations between England and Germany to land were in a stage analogous to the relations assume a friendly character. A friend of my of Prussia with Austria before 1866, and that friend cannot be my enemy. An Anglo-German in all probability a cordial understanding understanding, therefore, offers for France the would have to be preceded by a sharp encounbest possible guarantee of peace, for no one in ter. The estrangement which rendered such a Germany thinks of an aggressive war against belief possible, though it may not have justified it, is past. Both nations may feel confident could offer us no advantages. Germany has that it will be possible to arrive at a cordial never yet embarked on an aggressive war agreement without any previous armed conflict. against France. The ambitions which the French ress attributes to us, now in Tripoli, now in Siam, and, in fact, all over the world, are imaginary. The question therefore forces itself upon us. Why does French diplomacy show itself so anxiously concerned to prevent a rapprochement between Germany and England? As the reason cannot be the preservation of peace, there remains only to account for it the hope of support in case of war, and of a war which France intends to bring about.

What induces French diplomacy to persist in this direction is the assurance that England will hold unswervingly, under every Cabinet to the entente with France, which is regarder as the personal achievement of the King, and which has brought him great popularity and far-reaching political influence in Great Britain The present Cabinet contains in its rank several very Germanophil Ministers, chie among them the War Minister and the Lore Chancellor, The Prime Minister, Sir H. Camp bell-Bannerman, has also repeatedly and emphatically declared that he sees n reason for England to live in unfriendlines towards Germany. The Foreign Minister Sir Edward Grey, is held to be an exceptionally cool head; as in the case of th King, his fellow-countrymen place unconditional reliance upon his ability. Sir Edward Grey sees in the entente with France the first and most important object of British policy. He is willing also to allow the cultivation of good relations with Germany in so far as this does not injure the entente. Personally he attaches greater importance to a reconciliation with Russia, which is not, however, in his opinion, as it is in the opinion of the French Press, to be directed against Germany, for he considers that it does not touch Germany. He is guided by his desire to secure a stable condition on the Indian frontier, and reduce the expense of the Army in India, according to the general wish of the Cabinet. At the present moment he is engaged in negotiating at St. Petersburg with regard to Thibet in order to avoid friction in that quarter. When once the negotiations with-Russia concerning Central Asia have been settled to the satisfaction of Germany, and should negotiations then proceed with regard to the Nearer East, Sir Edward Grey will certainly be prepared to come to terms with Germany concerning the latter's interests there. The German Empire will in the meantime not regard Anglo-Russian negotiations respecting Central Asia as affecting Germany, and will welcome their conclusion as a favourable symptom for the general peace.

But, differing in this respect from the views of the British Secretary of State, a considerable portion of the British Press advocates an agreement with Russia, not with a view to the diminution of friction in Asis, but in order to bring about, in the sense of the Delcassé policy, a sapprochement of the three Powers, and as far as possible of the rest of Europe, against Germany. That section of the Press, therefore, regards with disfavour any closer relations between England and Germany, and is persistently at pains to interpret German policy in the same sense. The kernel of Anglo-German relations therefore lies herein, that Sir Edward Grey shall not identify himself with these French interpretations, but meet the ice appears to have been broken at Fried-

Germany with confidence. In this respect richshof. Since the meeting at Friedrichshof, we may be justified in assuming that we are travelling, though slowly and step by step, to a period of rapprochement. Germany could argue with some force, and let us hope not without success, that a peaceful policy for Great Britain can alone consist in holding out the hand to Germany, and that peace would thereby be much more effectively secured than by congresses and disarmament proposals. The relations between England and France would not be thereby imperilled, since England has irrevocably declared that the entente with France is a permanent basis of her policy. No doubt could exist on that point in France, even if England were to woo Germany openly and without constraint. As for the possibility of a Franco-German rapprochement-that is to say, of the more friendly relations of France to Germany-false hopes and baseless fears would appear still to stand in its way, and an open relationship of friendliness on the part of England towards Germany might materially help to remove them. The policy of ententes outside of Germany and against Germany is uncertain in exection and not without danger in its consequences. This policy of counterpoises will persist, however, as long as England, out of fear of displeasing Paris, continues to treat with coolness the honourable approaches of Germany. Germany is thereby necessarily compelled to remain on her guard. Towards Germany England has only the choice between either the policy, which might easily become disastrous, of an Anglo-French counterpoise, or that of including Germany within the circle of her friendships. These logical conclusions can hardly fail to have carried weight at Friedrichshof and in the British Foreign Office. Substantial results will naturally mature only

Passing, then, to the question of German naval expansion and the comments made upon it in the English Press, the author of the article lays down the necessity for England of facing the situation. England, he says, must reconcile herself to the thought of seeing the German Fleet occupy, alongside of the British Fleet a position commanding and imposing respect on the sea. . . A year ago the belief did

Alexandris, September 14. RESPECTING ANTHEMS.

Sir,-It is unfortunate that "A Twenty Years' Resident in "Egypt" upon his return from the villages should have seen fit to continue his insinuation gainst the breeding and tact of his fells untrymen in this country. Let me assure him that his previous letter has caused quite sufficient resentment amongst his fellow-countrymen without his further adding to it. As the criticizer of his remarks, I feel bound to write once more and for the last time on this absurd subject to refute his last letter. If he would be kind enough to read my letter more carefully he would discover that I have been careful to emphasize the fact that it is not the habit of other nations to respect anthems.

That he should find in my letter any suggestion that the conduct of Englishmen should be guided by that of natives shows him to be possessed of great ingenuity. I merely represented to him the other and commoner side of the picture. In the incident at the Continental Hotel was indeed shewn an attempt on the part of Englishmen to give natives-let them be the skimmed milk of their society if you will !- a lesson in manners with any poor

In conclusion, I would merely very that "A Twenty Years' Resident in Egypt" need no longer flatter himself that his words of wondrous wisdom resulted in the springing of every Englishman to his feet on that night!

His unfortunate letter appeared in Cairo the night af er this episode and could have hardly caused this unanimous act of courtesy on the part of every Englishman present for the first time.

MESSAGE FROM MARS.

Signor Marconi communicates to a Sydney newspaper the following startling intelligence: Cape Clear station, the most westerly point of the British Isles, receives every midnight without fail since two years a word which belongs to an unknown language. Whence this word? Signot Marconi believes from Mars, but why the message arrives at a particular hour and at a particular spot is inexplicable.

EGYPTIAN PAPYRI.

The Hibeh Papyri: Part I. By B. P. Grenfell and A. S. Hunt. (Egypt Exploration Fond.) The publication of a new volume by these indetatigable explorers and decipherers is always an event of importance to the world of Greek scholars, As usual, this work represents not only their aguteness and learn ing, as well as heir unique experience, but also the knowledge of many other experts, whom they wisely summon to their assistance. Of these they return special thanks to Prof. Blass of Hal'e and Prof. Smyly of Dublin. The former has every classical Greek text in his head, and As therefore matchless at identifying new fragments; the latter comdesphering, and therefore moves about among bewildering correncies and calendars with an ease rare among classical scholars when they come to face complicated figures. The highest praise which the present volume can attain is to be called a worthy successor to the long series of masterpieces which have brought its two editors into the first rank of European philologists. Not only is it of this high standard : it is perhaps more valuable than any of the rest, except the Tebtunis volume, in that it deals with a mass of the earliest dated Greek MSS. ever discovered. As such, its plates afford a lesson in pa'mography, to which the on'y parallel is to be found in the first two volumes of the Petrie papyri, and of these the first is out of print, and very costly to acquire. It is, indeed, most unfortunate that considerations of economy have permitted the authors to give us only nine plates, whereas the Petrie volumes had fifty. But these nine provide texts on the average a little earlier than the fif y, so that now we may safely say that we know Greek handwriting in the days of the second and third Ptolemies (280-22 B.C.) better than we know any down to the ninth century. The present volume not only shows how men wrote books and letters in the early third century B c. : it even presents a text from 301 BC. nemorable in many ways, but not the least in that it is as cursive as any hand can well be, and shows a habit of writing and of reading as developed as in the world of to-day. The original MSS. of Plato's dialogues or Euripides's plays were probably similar in appearance and written on the same material. As a pa'æ graphical study, therefore, the present volum · (with the Petrie papyri) affords the materials for the opening chapter in any future treatise on Greek writing.

A MOTHER'S EXPERIENCE.

Mrs. Sarah Coulston, of 7 Quarr, Shepton Mallet, England, says :- "Doan's Backache Kidney Pills have been a boon to me. Following the birth of my 13th child, I was taken with serious kidney trouble; there were severe pains in the loins, and the right side of my body swelled from head to foot.

"For three months I was so ill that I couldn't get about the house; I have sat for hours at a time holding my head, and I have been greatly troubled with dizziness,

"At length I was reduced to such a low and weak condition that I thought I was dying. The doctor did all he could for me, but he was obliged to own that there was no hope for me bines math matical learning with his skill in unless I went into the hospital. However, it was impossible for me to leave the little ones. Happily, my mother told me about Donn's Backache Kidney Pills, and on her advice I gave them a thorough trial. From the first they seemed doing me good, and with the fourth box the swellings began to disappear, and the pains were not so bad. I am now better in every way, and the greatest praise is due to Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. I shall always be pleased to recommend them.

(Signed) "SARAH COULSTON." When the kidneys are well, they filter out from 3 lbs. to 4 lbs. of watery waste (urine) every day. You can soon tell when this work is not being properly done, because the im purities will cause urinary disorders, gravel, pain in the back and loins, dizzy spells; every change of the weather will affect you, making you feel miserable, weak and nervous; watery swellings may appear beneath the eyes or in the ankles, the sight will be blurred.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills assist in filtering out the poisonous waste, by reviving the activity of the kidneys, and restoring a natural action to the connective organism.

PITH OF THE PRESS.

Germany and Anglo-French Entente. ~ For the last thirty years the peace of Burope has been secured by a system of counterpoises, and we are not aware that Germany had ever bitherto allowed her own right to be questioned, or had questioned that of other Powers, to seek in a system of ententes and alliances those combinations which might appear to be most effective for the preservation from time to time of the balance of European power. The entente tetween France and England represents the first occasion on which a third Power has ventured to maintain that a friendly relationship between two Powers must be construed as hostile to a third-Power, unless that third Power be allowed to convert a menage à deux into a ménage à trois. It is necessary to use plain language. We do not believe that German solicitations in London will affect our rela tions with France, any more than German threats in Paris affected them a year ago. Those relations are based upon considerations of common interests and of general policy which have commended themselves equally to the Governments and the people of both countries. We see no reason whatever why we should quarrel with Germany, or why Germany should quarrel with us, but we do see many reasons why our relations with Germany can not, in present circumstances, acquire the same character of intimacy which our relations with France have now happily acquired. To modify these relations, whether by addition or by subtraction, at the bidding of Germany would be to recognize a sort of German begemony in Europe; and history is there to tell us that England's greatness is based upon her resistance in the past to similar c'aims of hegemony, whether they were put forward by a Charles V. or a Louis XIV., or a Napoleon. ("Times.")

The Kalser's Isolation.

The Ge-man Emperor cannot feel hurt Great Britain, the guardian of the world's peace. inscribes him, in his turn, on the list of cardidates for hegemony, a list in which appear the names of Charles Quint, Louis XIV. and Napoleon. They, too, had isolated themselves by an excess of power, but they did not complain; they did not accuse anyone, and did not considid all to be feared, and thereafter were not astonished if they inspired more fear than affection. ("Figaro.")

If Germany recognises the pacific tendency of France's tolicy, why the famous visit of the Emperor to Tangier, why the raising of bucklers which we witnessed a few months ago, and which at one moment threatened to turn to tragedy? Why this evident agreement between the Government of Berlin and the Porte to cause us embarrassment in the heart of the Sadan, where Germany's military and commercial interests are absolutely nil? Why, finally, these incessant reinforcements in Alsace-Lorraine, and the construction of new fortrasses close to our frontier! ("Gaulois").

The Bengal Agitation.

The partition of Bengal, a measure which was in reality adopted by the Government simply because it was held to be necessary for the better administration of two important provinces, is denounced as an insidious attempt to weaken the nascent spirit of nationality which inspires the Bengali, and which it is alleged Lord Curzon was anxious to destroy. Te argue for or against the partition is now a sheer waste of time. It was decided upon after long and careful consideration and with the approval of two Secretaries of State. The idea that it is likely to be reversed in deference to an opposition whose chief arguments are seditions language, riotous processions and assemblies, boycotting of European goods, persecution of Mahometans, and vitureration of English officials, may, we trust, te dismissed as the wildest of illusions. In that case, however, it would be as well if the determination of the authorities-and we hope that their firmness is not over-estimated - were placed beyond all possible doubt. ("Standard").

The North-West Passage.

Whenever one drifts into the National Portrait Gallery and looks at the Arctic explorers in their little room at the end of a passage, there is the uneasy feeling that they in their time and we in ours have had widely different aims, and that a great deal of heroism has been wasted. From the days of Corte Real to those McClure, the whole romance of Polar discovery was bound up in the attempt to find and force a North-West passage. McClure at last got through on foot. That is six-andfifty years ago, and now comes the news from Alaska, wired by Captain Amundsen to King Haskon, that this perilous and besilve passage has been for the first time made by a ship, The marvel is that it has been made, after all, by such a small ship. The Gjoa is a sloop of fifty tone burden, with a crew of seven men. But she was designed and fitted under the eye of Dr. Nansen for strength and endurance, and she has been even longer affoat than the Fram was. That her voyage, if successful, might occupy four years was, however, the extreme expectation of Captain Amundsen. The news is of great interest. When an account of the voyage comes to hand, the practicability or otherwise of Dr. Nansen's idea that a second drift with the ice may be made from a point farther west than his own, and that a ship of Fram's type may pass across the actual Pole, will be very much clearer.

Although his antobiography already consists of 250,000 words, Mark Twain says he propo ses to lie abed in the mernings dictating the events and impressions of his life, so that no multi-milionaire can sff rd to bry such a mammoth work except on the instalment plan.

He informs the world in/a mock/ heroic introduction that he intends to make his autobiography a model for all future autobiographies, so that it will live for a couple of thousand years without any effort, and then take a fresh start and last through eternity.

Mr. Clemens describes his antobiography as having a systemless system, "which begins nowhere, follows no specified route, and can never reach its end while I am alive, for the reason that if I should talk to a stenographer for two hours each day for a hundred years I should never be able to set down a tenth part of the things which have interested me in my life-time." # A Radical Tribute to Mr. Chamberlain

We are very glad of the news that Mr. Chamberlain is steadily regaining his wonted health after a lengthy illness and a tedious recovery. London is hardly the best place for a convalescent, and we hope that the return to his home in the Midlands will have all the good effects anticipated. Doubtless to so good a fighter it will be a tonic to find his renewed vigour called upon to face renewed difficulties for himself and his policy.

Tea acts as a stimulant, while nicotine depresses the heart, so that the one, he says, counteracts the effect of the other.

The 1st Battalion Royal Berkshire Regiment, Dublin, has prepared a draft of '32 non-commissioned officers and men to join the 2nd Battalion in Egypt. The draft will embark for Alexandria about the 21st November. The officers placed on duty with it are Major A. S. Cave, Captain A. G. E. Bingley, Lieutenant G. H. Sawer, L. W. Bird, A. G. M. Sharpe and Second Lieutenant T.R. Aldworth.

Captain H. B. Protheros Smith, 21st Lancers, commanding the squadron of Military Mounted Police in Egypt has been promoted to field rank, in succession to Major A. M. Pirie, D. S. O., resigned. Major Protheroe Smith began his career in the Dorsetshire Regiment in 1892, and after five years service in the "Green Linnets" exchanged to the 21st Lancers, then a hussar regiment. The new adjutant of the 66th got his first commission in January, 1902, and he joined the 2nd Battalion at the front in time to share in the operations of April and May of that year in the Cape Colony, for which he received the Queen's medal with two clasps.

> The cruiser Minerva, Captain A. W. > The huge battleship Dreadnought, though now in commission, is still in dock at Ports month, a good portion of her internal arrange: ments having yet to receive the finishing touch, For a battleship of her dimensions to be finished for sea inside the year-ten months to be correct-is a world's record. Much indignation has been caused by the reckless reports to the effect that the work was scamped in order to create an impression on foreign Powers re the rapidity with which England could supplement her fleet in war time. Much mischief has been created by these reports.

Wilson, V.C., G.C.V.O., K.C.B., in the command of the Channel Fleet when the latter retires in March next under the age rules. By that time, owing to impending retirements, Lord Charles will be a full Admiral. He commanded the old Channel Fleet in 1903.

It is being strongly urged that as the Montagu is now a wreck, and three other battleships more or less hors de combat through socidents the building of another Dreadnought should be at once taken in hand so as to maintain British naval supremacy. The series of accidents to our battleship has rather shaken faith in the blue water cult.

The first class battleship Lord Nelson, which has just been launched at Palmer's yard, Yarrow on Tyne, will be a very powerful ship when completed for rea. She measures 410 feet in length, 791 feet in beam, a draught of load line will be 16,500 tons. She is fittet with Babcock and Wilcox boilers, which will ALL KINDS RIVER & SEA CRAFT, NEW AND supply her Admiralty pattern engines up to knots is stipulated for. not satisfied that we have in the biggest battleship now affect the some of efficiency. She is less in length than the ships of King Elward VII class, but greater in beam and so better adapted to the dimensions of existing docks than some of the more recent additions to the Navy. Some intesting and important new departures mark the details of the design of the Lord Nelson. Her main armament consists of four 12 in., breach loading gans, and ten 9.2 breach loading guns, whilst her secondary armament is made up of twenty quickfiring guns. But in this instance the gans are concentrated more in the centre of the full length of the ship than in the other ela-ses of modern battleships to which allusion has already made. Then again, they are placed over 30ft, above the waterline, with the intention of giving them a greater command of the water round The 2nd Battalion Royal Dublin Fasiliers, the ship on all sides, and also enabling torpedo J. Duberly, 1st Battalion Royal Berkshire the guns have been given, in addition to a Regiment, has been placed on duty with great height of platform, an exceptional arc this draft, which embarks about the 29th of training. Another new arrangement, which will be readily observed, is that the gons are covered in, all save the muzzles being thas hidden from view. The torpedo equipment consists of five submerged tubes for firing, two at each broadside and one at the stern.

> The armour embraces the bulkhead, citadel barbettes, and conning tower, together with some minor details, such as the glacis, bow and protection, the whole weighing nearly 3,(0) tons. The whole of the thick armour is made on the latest system adopted by the leading navies of the world. It is the "K.C." quality, which is the highest class of armour manufactured, whilst the glacis is "K.N.C." plating. "K.C." armonr is a very great advance on the old process of compound plating, with which the Resolution and Ravenge, also built at Yarrow were protected, although the two systems have the same under'ying principlea hardened surface to break the projectile, and a toughened back to prevent the fracture of of the whole. According to Lord Brassey "the redistance to perforation by ungapped projectiles of 15 inch iron is about the same as that of 12 inches of ordinary steel in compound 5% inches of Krapp steel.

A REMARKABLE ARMENIAN.

We learn with profound regret the death of H.B. Bedros Effendi Azarian, which occurred in Franzensbad on the 4th inst. The deceased was the son of late Aristakes Effendi Azarian. and belonged to the well-known and distingnished tamily who have given to the Catholic Armenians a celebrated Catholic Patriarch, H.B. Mgr. Stephen Peter X. Ararian, uncle of the deceased. Bedros Effendi was the second President of the Constantinople Chamber of Commerce, the first and founder being his late father. He was also an administrator of the Shirket-i-Hairie, and of other commercial com panies, Though not directly mingled in the affairs of the Catholic Armenian community to which he belonged, he was its preferred and most revered counsellor. To his enlargened mind and to his hereditary benevolent li beralities this community owe the present efficaceous education given in St.-Gregory the Illuminator's College in Pera. Other schools and hospitals owe equally much to his praiseworthy liberalities. Nor was his benevolence confined to his own community. All who applied to Bedros Effendi were sure to receive either good counsel or some pecuniary relief. The board of the Greek School in Pendik, (Marmora), of which the deceased was a great berefactor, paid a just tribute to the memory of Bedros Effendi by postponing a "fête de bienfaisance" which was to have take place on the 8th inst. His death causes to the Catholic Armenians both in Constantinople and abroad an irreparable loss. He leaves behind him widow, Lady Takouhi Azarian, née Marushian, and six children. His eldest son died prematurately some years ago. One of his daughters is married to a well known architect in Constantinople, Mr. Leon Gureghian. His body will be transferred to Constantinople for ultimate interment in the family vault.

REVUE COMMERCIALE

Cotons

La semaine qui vient de finir n'angor cait rien de bon au commencement, car les deux premières journées, sans causes plausibles ou du moins sérieuses, ont été d'une faiblesse quelque peu outrée. En effet, le recul jusqu'à 16 1/32 pour le Novembre a paru excessif ne soit passé, on ne saurait dire ce que pourra et nullement justifié par le calme du marché du disponible, qui n'avait encore nulle importance. et rien qu'à cause des attaques des baissiers ancouragée par les déj éches d'Amérique et de Liverpool, prévoyant une accentuation de la baisse après la publication du Repport du Furesu d'Agriculture.

Ce petit jeu a cessé pourtant à partir de Mardi matir, car des qu'on a su connaissance da chiffre de 77 3 10 comme condition de la plante, le sentiment a changé du tout au tout et la fermeté a commencé à régner à son tonr, pour finir par se traduire par une reprise de 5/8 sur le minimum pratiqué, soit une avance de 3/16 sur Vendredi dernier, la cote de clô ture de ce jour étant de 16 21/32.

Ce n'est pas trop, mais pour le moment cels est suffisant, d'autant plus que le découvert est torfours aussi important que par le passé et que le parti haussier est à même de l'exploiter facilement à tout moment, et plus efficacement encore si la hausse est graduelle.

Une circonstance qui a fourni son appui à cette amélioration, est la bonne demande sargie pour le disponibles d'une façon indpinée et qui a été accompagnée d'une hausse de près de 3/4 de tallari en trois jours,-Certes la modération des arrivages est pour beaucoup dans cette hausse, et, partant, nous ne voulons pes attribuer une trop grande importance an fait en lui-nême; mais en somme, au point de vue de la apéculation. pouvait-on souhaiter un meilleur prétexte ou une base plus sérieuse. La chose peut être mementanée, nons en convenons, mais en attendant il est indéniable qu'il y a des besoins urgents en filature et ce n'est aurement pas là un atout pour le baissier, d'ici que'que temps du moins.

L'espace nous étant de nonveau mesuré aujourd'hui, nous ne pouvons pas entrer dans beaucoup de considérations ; mais en tenant compte de l'ensemble de la situation, et sans être pour les gros prix, nons croyons que les cours actuels sont susceptibles d'âtre maintenus pour longtemps encore. Eu tous cas, une baisse sensib'e ne semble pas probable avant qu'il n'y ait effluence dans les arrivager

Le rapport du Bureau d'Agriculture, quoi que au dessons des prévisions, avait produit de la baisse en Amérique, mais après la ontété de 8,000 balles, et il parsit que sans la première impressior, New York et New Orleans ont un peu changé d'avis. Et en cela les deux marchés en question n'ont pas tort, gar avec le: 77 3/10 du Bureau, il sersit absurde de prétendre qu'une récolte de 13 à 14,000,000 serait quand même possible. Le meximum à espérer dans les conditions les plus propices, vateur au début de chaque saiso", serait de disponible qui est coté à 5.63, par 9 points et en tenent compte des arriérés chez le culti-12,000,000 de Balles et pour une pareille quantité le niveau actuel n'est pas élevé. C'est du reste l'opinion qui commence à préva'oir un peu partout, ear, à ce que l'on affirme du dehore, la filature qui était hors du marché se serait remise aux schats. La seule note discordante qui nous soit arrivée hebdomadaire du "Chronicle" de New-York qui trouve, qu'après de sérieuses investigations, l'acréage serait effectivement de 31,600,000 Acres. Nous verrons ce que nous dira le Census Bureau, mais si le chiffre sus-lit devait être réel ou devait être pris comme tel par le marché, il ne tarderait pas à influencer le conra des choses dans le sens de la baisse.

En tous cas, la récolte a ancore la période des gelées à traverser et avant que ce risque Atre le rendement.

Chez nons, on commence à parler de dégâts par les brouillards et de rendement pen favora ble de la première cueillette. Il n'y a rien de sérieux jusqu'ici, mais comme ensemble les choses iraient moins bien qu'elles n'en avaient l'air. Il n'est cependant pas dit que la deuxième queil'ette ne nons offcirait pas une dempensa tion à tout déficit de la première !

Le marché du disponible avait fléchi à 17 pour le Good, provenance Haute Egypte, mais à la suite de la demande à laquelle nous avonfait allusion plus haut, il y a eu reprise à 17 3/4 et c'est la cote officielle de ce jour qui consacre le prix. Le co'on de Ghizeh a fiui à Quant au Mit Affifi jusqu'ici nous n'avons su au marché que Balles 9 en tout de Tantah pour lesquelle on a payé 20 1/4. Seulement, l'affaire date déjà de deux jours et ne saurait plus servir de base.

La lu te entre les acheteurs est relativement vive poor la marchandise prête et comme naturellement personne ne s'est amusé à vendre à découvert sur Septembre, il y a lieu de penser que la demande qui existe actuellement est une de nouvelle pour les tout premiers be soins de la campagne.

Les exportations de la semaine, demeurant dans les prévisions, n'ont été que de Balles 3,700, contre Balles 8,700 en 1905 pour le même période. La filatore ne voulant pas entendre parler du vieux coton, nos embarque ments ne peuvant augmenter qu'avec le déve loppement das recettes. Il est à croire donc que c'est par étapes que les chiffres grossiront pour les trois ou quatre semaines à venir.

Le marché de Liverpool a été plus favorable aux égyptiens disponibles et c'est à une mo yenne de 300 balles par jour que se sont élevées les ventes annoncées du dit marché Quant aux prix, le spot finit en baisse de 1/16 sur vendredi dernier, la cote n'étant plus que de 9 5/8, mais les futurs, par contre, finissent en hausse de 12/64 pour le Septembre qui vaut 99/64, ainsi que pour le Novembre qre nons trouvons ce soir à 8 27/64. Le affaires ne sont pourtant pas importantes pour les livrables.

Les an éricains disponibles ont door s lieu a des ventes journalières qui dans l'ensemble difficulté du choix, les affaires auraient été plus importantes. Dens tous les cas, cela n'a rien que de fort naturel, car la saison d'automne commence et il faut bien que l'activité

Pour ce qui est des cours, il y a de la hausse sur toute la ligne et elle est plutôt sensible, ear elle est représentée par 18 points pour le pour l'Octobre-Novembre qui finit à 507 et par 6 points pour le Janyier Février qui s'inscrit également à 507.

Graines de Coton

I es arrivages, assez satisfaisants pour le début, n'ont eu au fond aucone importarce, ces jours-ci est celle fournie par le rapport leur total ayant à peine atteint ard. 10.000.

C'est du reste cette cause qui a le plus contri bué au soutien des cours, les acheteurs étant relativement assez nombreux. Quoi qu'il en soit, la cote de ce matin pour le disponible a été de P.T. 68 1/2.

Les exportations n'ont guère dépassé les 17.000 ardebs et très probablement nos embarquements de la semaine prochaine resteront dans la note modérée, surtout qu'il n'y a pas pour le moment de bateau sous chargement à l'exception d'un steamer pour Londres. Quant au "Vigo" affrêté pour Hull, il ne pourra être prêt que pour la semaine suivante. En contrats il n'y a pas en des choses saillantes. Au commencement et en sympathie avec les cotons, les cours étaient tombés à 62 1/4, mais sur des achats non indifférents pour compte d'un exportateur, il y a eu reprise à 63 1/4, mais pour finir à 62 33/40. En bloc les affaires sont limitées et cela provient de ce que la spéculation est plutôt réservée sur l'article. Hull se fait tonjours tirer l'oreille, mais les cours y sont plus fermes: Septembre vaut £6 16/3, tandis que les 3 mois sont cotés à £ 6 3/9-6 5/-.

Feves:

Marché tonjours nul et cours nominalement en baisse à P.T. 112.

CHRONIQUE FINANCIERE

Alexandrie, le 14 Septembre.

Il n'yapas eu d'ordres cette semaine. Les spé culateurs sont restés sur leurs positions, dans l'attente de données plus précises sur l'orientation du marché monétaire. Ce n'est donc pas aux ventes ou achats qui ont pu être contractés depuis vendredi dernier qu'il taut attribuer les fluctuations de notre cote, mais simplement à la hausse énorme du taux privé d'escompte de 3 1/2 à 4 % dans l'espace de 4 jours, accompagnée de la baisse du consolidé anglais et de la rente française.

Ces événements étaient plus ou moins prévas. On s'attendait depuis longtemps à ce que New York, épuisé par la catastrophe de San Francisco, fit appel aux capitaux européens. Mais ces besoins se cont révélés de façon si subite qu'ils n'en ont pas moins impressionné la spéculation.

donnent à réfléchir, mais il y a si longtemps que ce pays est un sojet d'inquiétude pour les apitalistes que ceux-ci ont fini par en prendre leur parti. Une bombe de plus ou de moins ne change pas grand chose à la situation

En ce qui concerne plus particulièrement les valeurs égyptiennes, il n'y a pas lieu de se plaindre. A Londres, elles fort preuve d'une fermeté de bon augure, excepté la National Bank qui vient de perdre en partie l'avance qu'elle avait gagnée à la nouvelle de sa transformation en banque d'Etat. Elle nons arrive aujourd'hui à 26 3/8, ce qui représente une baisse de 5/8 sur le cours de vendredi dernier. On clôture ici à 26 3/16. En revanche la Daïra

gagne 1/4 de livre à 17 à la suite d'une hausse appréciable du Crédit Foncier Egyptier, dans lequel elle se trouve grandement intéressée. Le prix local est de 16 7/8. A Paris, on constate la même fermeté: Le Crédit Foncier Egyptien s'avance même de 762 à 772, le Crédit Lyonnais de 1189 à 1193 et la Banque Ottomane de 650 à 670. Seule la Land Bank réactionne à 223, en perte de 6 francs. A part la baisse de la National Bank, des Nungovich Hotels, de la Delta Land et de la part de fondateur Compteir, l'ensemble de la cote locale est relativement soutenu. La perte de quelques points qui s'est produite sur la généralité des cours n'a pas d'importance ; elle est due, comme nous venous de le dire, à la hausse du taux d'escompte et à la baisse du consolidé et de la rente. Un autre facteur de la réaction, c'est l'ouverture de la saison cotonnière avec son drainage périodique de l'argent. Dans cette prévision les banques locales ont déjà pris leurs précautions en argmentant le toux de l'intérêt et en se montrant plus réservées dans leurs Malgré tout et précisément à cause de ces nesures, la situation de notre marché paraît aine, les positions peu surchargées et dès que a situation monétaire aura perdu de sa tension, ne reprise est probable, si l'on considère sa rout que cette époque coincidera probablement vec la saison des affaires, la période annuelle le hausse et la rentrée de tous les capitalistes

Un indice irrécusable de la bonne tenue les valeurs égyptiennes, c'est l'étonnante ferneté de nos titres fonciers au milieu de la aiblesse générale et en dépit de toutes les nouvelles défavorables. Ces titres qui sont omme le baromètre de la fortune du pays et le l'avenir du marché local sont presque tous n hausse. La Daïra Sanieh s'avance de 16 1/16 à 16 7/8, la Béhéra est demandée à 36 ivres, la Nile Land gagne 1/4 de livre à 14 1/4, es Estates sont excessivement soutenus à 7/8, le Cheik Fadl à 113 et l'Union Foncière 6 1/16 6 1/8. L'Urbaine perd seulement /16 à 6 1/8 et la Delta Land 5/32 à 3 5/16. On sait que l'Union Foncière, qui devait pu-blier son bilan au mois de juiu dernier, en a renvoyé la publication à la fin de l'année. L'exercice a, paralt-il, été fort brillant. Les pérations un moment interrompues pendant la aison d'été vont reprendre bientût et si elles ont aussi rémunératrices que les affaires précédemment concluer, elles permettront la dis-tribution d'un beau dividende.

Le bruit de nouveaux pourparlers de fusion entre la Salt and Soda et la Port Said Salt Association avait déterminé une hausse sur la Salt and Sods. Depuis, cette rumeur ayant été officiensement démentie, le cours de cette de nière est retombée à 20 shellings 3 pence.

Depuis la fusion de la Building Lands of Egypt avec le Trust, ce dernier est relativement soutenu, tandis que la Building perd graduellement du terrain. Elle est offerte

Les actionnaires de la Land and General Trust, résidant en Egypte, protestent contre l'irrégularité de la convocation de la récente assemblée tenue à Londres, Bien qu'ils forment la mejorité des actionnaires, ils out reçu des ordres de convocation si tardifs qu'il leur a été matériellement impossible d'y assister ou de s'y faire représenter. Dans de telles conditions il se peut que les décisions prises à cette assem blée se trouvent annulées et qu'une nouvelle Par décision de l'assemblée générale extraordinaire des actionnaires des Sucreries et Refinerie d'Egypte, tenue au Caire le 24 mars 1906, le capital nominal de 32.500.000 france divisé en 325.000 actions ordinaires de 100 france, doit être, par réduction des deux tiers, ramené à 10.833 400 france, divisé en 1(8.334 actions ordinaires. Une action nouvelle doit done être remise en échange de trois anciennes. En outre, aux termes du concordat voté par l'Assemblée des créanciers le 23 mai 1906, mologué par jugement du tribunal mixte du Caire le 2 juin suivant, les 109,405 obligations ordinaires de 500 fr. 4 % restant en cir-culation doivent être é hangées contre de nouvelles obligations ordinaires de 400 fr. rem boureables à 500 francs en 60 ans. à revenu variable maximum 5 % avec échéance du ler parliet 1969 pour le premier coupor. Au mo-ment de l'échange des obligations les porteurs pourront demander l'échange par et simple, ou l'échange avec l'estampille dornant droit à un coupon annuel de 8 fr. pendant 3 ans payable par semestre pour le premier paiement juillet 1906 et ce, aux charges et conditions de l'arti-cle 3 du concordat. L'optica pour l'estampille des titres prend fin le 20 septembre courant.
